To whom it may concern,

I am an owner investor of a couple vacation rental units in Waikiki. These investments were made with my own money and now serve as main source of income for me and my family. These tax hikes are not only affecting my bottom line, but as a consequence will hurt my family and our lively hood. Not all investors can afford to pay such unreasonable fees! We may be forced into selling them and leaving the island all together. I am not alone in this and there are probably many that this might affect in the long run in a vast number of ways. It shocks me to think that city planning was done so unsatisfactorily and without thought of the effects of this on a large number of people who call Hawaii their home.

Sincerely,

Clinton D. Andersen
