MAYOR'S MESSAGE

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, CITY AND COUNTY OF HONOLULU

I am pleased and proud to present the 1999 Annual Report of the Honolulu Police Commission to the citizens of the City and County of Honolulu.

Community Policing has bonded the citizens and the communities to the Honolulu Police Department which is the key factor in the continued reduction of crime and citizens complaints against our police officers during 1999. This team-up against crime has had a positive effect on the quality of life and safety in our neighborhoods and has encouraged a favorable outlook of the police department by the general public.

I salute the Honolulu Police Commission and the Honolulu Police Department for keeping focused, fostering and maintaining the highest standards of conduct for the police officers and working unitedly with the island communities for a secure and beautiful place for all of us to live.

ORGANIZATION CHART

HONOLULU POLICE COMMISSIONERS

CHAIR'S MESSAGE

As police commissioners representing the citizens of the City and County of Honolulu, we are tasked with duties and responsibilities mandated by the City Charter. One critical duty is selecting a Chief of Police who has the skills and abilities to effectively address the problems and lead the Police Department in the right direction. We are very proud of our selection of Chief Lee D. Donohue who has been able to move the Honolulu Police Department forward despite internal problems that he and his management team have addressed effectively.

The reduction of crime and citizens complaints, the designing, planning, organizing and implementing the HPD 2003 strategic plan to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the Police Department and the drastic improvement in managing and controlling traffic on the freeways and main streets are some significant accomplishments under the leadership of Chief Donohue. The improved morale and the positive outlook of the Police Department by the public are the by-products of a Chief of Police who is open, consistent, responsive, forthright, positive and refreshing.

We are accountable to the various communities of the Island and committed in discharging our responsibilities in the oversight of the Police Department, as open communication and being accessible to the Chief of Police are essential. In this regard, Chief Donohue has unfailingly been very forward and candid in discussing and sharing promotions, problems, strategies and other topics that are relevant and of interest to the Police Commission. Most assuredly, such cooperation and support are greatly appreciated as it makes the commissioners' work less challenging.

The Police Commissioners thank the citizens of the City and County of Honolulu for their continuous support of the Honolulu Police Department.

Would also like to extend my deepest thanks and appreciation to the members and staff of the Honolulu Police Commission for their dedicated efforts during the year and to Chief Lee Donohue, his management team, and the entire Police Department for their many contributions.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

A citizen may register a formal complaint at the Commission office between the hours of 7:45 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. If the complainant is unable to register his/her complaint at the Commission office, the citizen may call the office to make alternate arrangements through the outreach program.

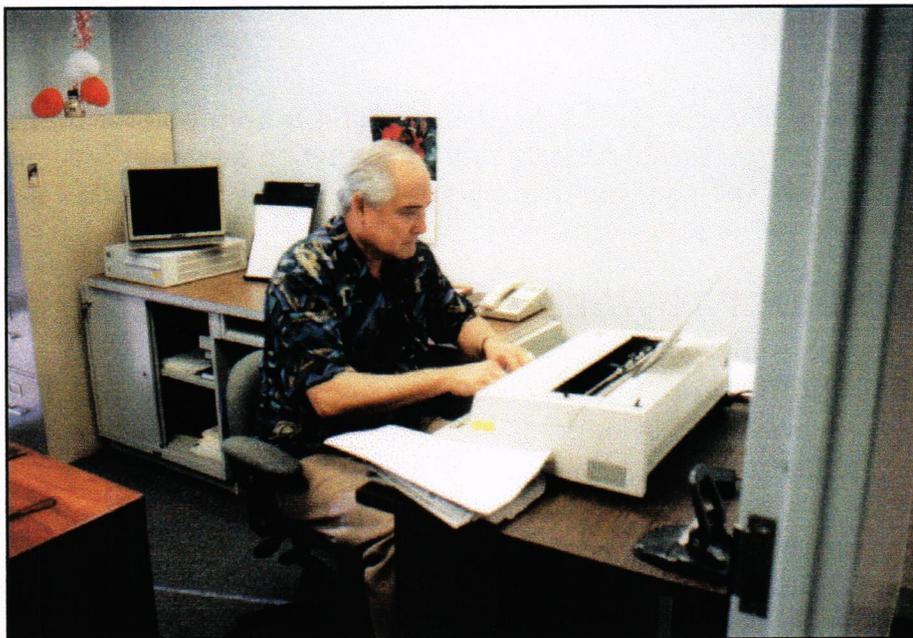

Complaints must be filed within 60 days from the date of the incident to ensure the availability of accurate investigative information. Past experience has shown that waiting more than 60 days may result in unclear recall by witnesses, an inability on the part of the investigators to locate witnesses, or general confusion and distortion of the facts by all parties involved. The Commission, however, may permit the filing of a complaint after the 60-day period for the following reasons: 1) excusable neglect; 2) newly discovered evidence which by reasonable diligence could not have been discovered in time; or 3) any other reason justifying relief from the 60-day limitation.

The aggrieved citizen gives a statement of the incident to an investigator or police reporter. Upon completion of the final typed statement, the citizen has the opportunity to make any corrections. The complainant signs the statement attesting to its accuracy and the statement is notarized.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

Investigator typing complaint notification to officer

A Police Commission investigator (a non-law enforcement, civil service employee) begins the investigation by contacting as many witnesses as possible and gathering all available facts.

This information is compiled in an objective report and presented to the Commission members for review.

Each Police Commissioner carefully reads the report and renders a recommendation to uphold or deny the allegations of the complaint. This is recorded at an Executive Session. A majority opinion, consisting of four or more votes, determines the disposition of each case. If more information is needed or if a majority vote is lacking, the case is deferred. In the event a majority vote sustains a complaint, the case is then submitted to the Chief of Police for disciplinary action. The result of said action is forwarded to the Commission.

Once a case is filed with the Commission office, efforts are made to complete the investigation within 60 days to preserve the timeliness of investigations and any resultant disciplinary action.

ACTIVITIES

1999 Hawaii State Police Commissioners' Conference

The 1999 Hawaii State Police Commissioners' Conference was hosted by the Honolulu Police Commission on May 27-28, 1999, at the Sheraton Princess Kaiulani Hotel. The theme of the conference, "Civilian Oversight and Use of Force", was fitting and practical for the police commissioners and law enforcement officials. The issue of Use of Force by police officers is a concern of citizens of the State of Hawaii and particularly important to the police commissioners in discharging their duties and responsibilities.

Mayor Jeremy Harris opened the conference with a heartwarming aloha and remarks followed by Leonard K. P. Leong, Chair, Honolulu Police Commission who welcomed all the attendees. Mayor Harris and Chair Leong highlighted the significance of the conference and how it will assist in fulfilling their roles as police commissioners.

To set the tone for a meaningful conference, Lieutenant Kevin Katamoto shared the Use of Force policy of the Honolulu Police Department and provided practical demonstrations in a variety of Use of Force situations. A panel of legal field experts, namely; Federal Magistrate Barry M. Kurren (also moderator), United States Attorney Steven S. Alm, City Prosecutor Peter B. Carlisle and prominent local attorney Eric A. Seitz centered their discussion on Use of Force: Necessary or Needless, A Legal Analysis. Another panel consisting of Federal Magistrate Kurren, Corporation Counsel David Z. Arakawa, local attorney David J. Gierlach and City Councilmember Jon Yoshimura openly talked about Use of Force: Litigation and Public Policy that maintained the interest and attention of the audience.

Following the first day of meaningful, enlightening and thought-provoking information, Ms. Katherine Mader, Deputy District Attorney of the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office presented and related her interesting experiences when she was the Inspector General of the Los Angeles Police Department's handling of complaints of misconduct by police officers and civilian employees.

The conference ended with a banquet that was enjoyable and delightful. A popular local comedian, Augie T. amused the attendees, with his quips and jests, as they were in stitches and laughter during his entire performance. The Tihati Trio then finished the evening with soothing and romantic Hawaiian music.

1999 Hawaii State Law Enforcement Officials Association Conference

The 46th Annual HSLEOA Conference was hosted by the Maui Police Department on August 11-13, 1999 at the Maui Prince Hotel. The theme of the conference, "Health, Fitness, and Stress as it Relates to Law Enforcement", was appropriate to the law enforcement profession because of the stressful situations that police officers must cope with daily in today's complex society. The information presented increased the understanding in how to deal with the growing effects of stress in law enforcement and it was indeed practical, valuable and informative to everyone who was present.

Maui Chief of Police Thomas M. Phillips, Maui County Managing Director Grant Y. M. Chun, and Maui Prince General Manager Paul Yokota opened the conference by extending a warm welcome to all attendees. Dr. James T. Reese, President of James T. Reese & Associates, gave the keynote address that focused on stress management.

Ms. Stephenie Karony, a Certified Personal Trainer, shared information concerning proper exercise, nutrition and lifestyle management. FBI Special Agent Ray Hamilton gave a presentation on the Legal Ramifications relative to the police officers' training. Dr. Terry Shintani, President of the Hawaii Health Foundation, discussed about diet and nutrition and the marvelous results of his Waianae Diet Program...loss of pounds, reduction of cholesterol and triglyceride levels, better health, more energy and strength. His diet program also focuses on eating traditional native foods.

The banquet, including the History of HSLEOA and honoring the HSLEOA Officers of the Year, brought the conference to a close. The honorees were:

Sgt. John Kauwenaole	Honolulu Police Department
Sgt. Theodore Y. S. Chun	Honolulu Police Department
Ofr. Ernest Soares, Jr.	Maui Police Department
Ofr. Michael Contrades	Kauai Police Department
Ofr. Mark M. Haggerty	Hawaii County Police Department

Sgt. Shawn M. Nicholson	United States Marine Corps

ACTIVITIES

1999 Annual National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement

The 1999 Annual NACOLE Conference was held at the Hyatt Regency Crown Center in Kansas City, Missouri, from October 5-8, 1999. The theme of the conference was "Blueprint 2000 - Citizen Oversight and Policing in the U.S."

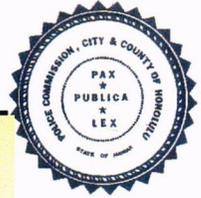

The NACOLE president opened the 5th annual conference with welcoming remarks and assured that the conference will provide valuable and technical information on various topics and afforded discussion with practitioners of civilian oversight, police managers and citizens on civilian review of law enforcement throughout the country. The keynote address was presented by Leslie Cornfield, Deputy Chief, Civil Rights Division of the United States Attorney Office, Eastern District of New York.

The first session was a panel discussion about Appropriate Use of Force, which arose from concerned communities throughout the nation who had examined use of force by law enforcement officers in several cases and wanted to determine what is appropriate force. Because racial profiling in traffic stops or "Stop and Frisk" actions by police officers has recently become a critical issue of citizen complaints, another panel shared information about Monitoring Police Integrity.

The second day began with a practical exercise: Investigation, Monitoring and Review of Complaints: A Practitioner's Case Study. It consisted of breakout groups to provide helpful hints in the examination and assessment of medical documents, written reports, policies and procedures and in techniques for interviewing and evaluating witness statements. This was followed by a panel providing perspectives on Civilian Oversight, Police Unions and Management: Knowing What to Expect. It also highlighted ongoing concerns and problems faced by experienced review boards.

By the end of the conference, it had increased awareness and sensitivity of a variety of issues involving law enforcement and the citizens throughout the country as expressed by civil review boards and police officials.
