ORGANIZATION CHART

Chair's Message
Chair Marc C. Tilker

2010 has been a challenging year for this great City. Collectively we continue to fight through the economic challenges that we face both as individuals and as a community.

I have thoroughly enjoyed the challenges of being the chair of the Honolulu Police Commission. The City and County of Honolulu is a place like no other. I am proud to work side by side with the dedicated professionals and citizen volunteers striving to constantly improve our City.

My goal as Chair of the Police Commission is to maintain the public trust of the Honolulu Police Department in the eyes and hearts of every citizen and visitor of Honolulu. I am proud to acknowledge the fine efforts of the members of the Honolulu Police Department. It is a privilege to witness their daily efforts and sacrifices as they strive to maintain order and safety on our streets and in our neighborhoods.

The focus of this commission is to hold officers accountable for their actions that are contrary to our principles. This accountability is the basis for our Police Commission. Our staff of civilian investigations and support personnel makes certain that each and every complaint gets the due diligence that it deserves. It is this system of checks and balances that ensures accountability within the rank and file of HPD and transparency within our government functions.

I support and applaud the tireless efforts of Chief Louis Kealoha and his command staff as they continue to shape our 2,100 member police department into one of the finest and dedicated departments in the nation.

I want to express appreciation to my fellow commissioners for all their commitment and dedication. With their help this Commission has been able to carry out the responsibilities entrusted to us by the citizens of Honolulu.

POWERS, DUTIES, AND FUNCTIONS

REVISED CHARTER OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF HONOLULU, 1973 (2000 Edition)

Section 6-1605, Police Commission

There shall be a Police Commission which shall consist of seven members. The Commission may appoint such staff and engage consultants as is necessary to assist it in the performance of its duties. The Commission shall be governed by the provisions of Section 13-103, Boards and Commissions, of this charter.

Section 6-1606. Powers, duties, and functions

The Police Commission shall:

- (a) Adopt such rules as it may consider necessary for the conduct of its business and review rules and regulations for the administration of the department.
- (b) Review the annual budget prepared by the Chief of Police and may make recommendations thereon to the Mayor.
- (c) Submit an annual report to the Mayor and the City Council.
- (d) Receive, consider and investigate charges brought by the public against the conduct of the department or any of its members and submit a written report of its findings to the Chief of Police. A summary of the charges filed and their disposition shall be included in the annual report of the Commission.
- (e) Review and, if deemed necessary, make recommendations on the five-year plan and any update of goals and objectives for the police department which is submitted by the Chief of Police. The Commission shall not have the power to approve, modify, or reject the plan or any update.
- (f) Compare at least annually the actual achievements of the police department against the goals and objectives in the five-year plan or latest update submitted by the Chief.
- (g) Evaluate at least annually the performance of duties by the Chief of Police.

Except for purposes of inquiry or as otherwise provided in this charter, neither the Commission nor its members shall interfere in any way with the administrative affairs of the department.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

A citizen may register a formal complaint at the Commission office between the hours of 7:45 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. If the complainant is unable to register his/her complaint at the Commission office, the citizen may call the office to make alternate arrangements through the outreach program.

Complaints must be filed within 60 days from the date of the incident to ensure the availability of accurate investigative information. Past experience has shown that waiting more than 60 days may result in unclear recall by witnesses, an inability on the part of the investigators to locate witnesses, or general confusion and distortion of the facts by all parties involved. The Commission, however, may permit the filing of a complaint after the 60-day period for the following reasons: 1) excusable neglect; 2) newly discovered evidence which by reasonable diligence could not have been discovered in time; or 3) any other reason justifying relief from the 60-day limitation.

The aggrieved citizen gives a statement of the incident to an investigator or police reporter. Upon completion of the final typed statement, the citizen has the opportunity to make any corrections. The complainant signs the statement attesting to its accuracy, and the statement is notarized.

A Police Commission investigator (a non-law enforcement, civil service employee) begins the investigation by contacting as many witnesses as possible and gathering all available facts.

Once a case is filed with the Commission office, efforts are made to complete the investigation within 60 days to preserve the timeliness of investigations and any resultant disciplinary action.

This information is compiled in an objective report and presented to the Commission members for review.

Each Police Commissioner carefully reads the report and renders a recommendation to uphold or deny the allegations of the complaint. This is recorded at an Executive Session. A majority opinion, consisting of four or more votes, determines the disposition of each case. If more information is needed or if a majority vote is lacking, the case is deferred.

The City of Seattle's Police Department Office of Professional Accountability hosted the 16th Annual National Association for Civilian Oversight of Law Enforcement (NACOLE) Conference from September 20-23, 2010 at the Fairmont Olympic Hotel in Seattle, Washington. Promoting Excellence was the theme of the conference. The conference provided an opportunity for citizens, civilian oversight and law enforcement professionals to exchange valuable information about civilian oversight of law enforcement, share experiences and form partnerships for continuing collaboration.

The conference was very informative and discussions included police accountability, off-duty misconduct, workplace retaliation, use of force, criminal investigations, budget issues, and improving police response to the mentally ill.

Benefits of attending the 16th Annual NACOLE Conference included the ability to obtain topical educational and organizational materials related to civilian oversight, assist communities to establish and refine oversight agencies, enhance knowledge about the various oversight models, receive certification in the civilian oversight profession. The conference provided an opportunity to network with the various oversight practitioners, citizens and law enforcement officials and to learn about their success and problem areas.

ACTIVITIES

57th Annual Hawaii State Law Enforcement Officials Association Conference September 23-24, 2010

The 57th annual Hawaii State Law Enforcement Officials Association (HSELOA) conference was hosted by the Kauai Police Department at the Kauai Marriott Hotel in Lihue, Kauai on September 23-24, 2010. The theme of the conference, "Medicinal Marijuana" Current Trends and Future Issues Facing Law Enforcement" recognizes the problems inherent in the exploitation of the use of marijuana for medicinal purposes.

Guest speakers Sergeant Eric Bixler of the Los Angeles Police Department and Deputy Sheriff Glenn Walsh of the Los Angeles Sheriff's office highlighted the Exploitation of Medicinal Marijuana in California and explained the ease with which anyone could obtain marijuana through the proliferating medical marijuana dispensaries throughout the state. Although Marijuana Dispensaries are not yet in Hawaii, the guest speakers offered their experience and perspective from the California and warned of the dangers of the ease of proliferation should marijuana dispensaries be allowed in Hawaii.

Beverly Sameshima, Esq. Assistant U.S. Attorney for the State of Hawaii offered brief perspectives from the viewpoint of the U.S. Attorneys office concerning medical marijuana, highlighting the position of their office that current federal law is that the use, sale or possession of marijuana, whether medically prescribed or not, is unlawful.

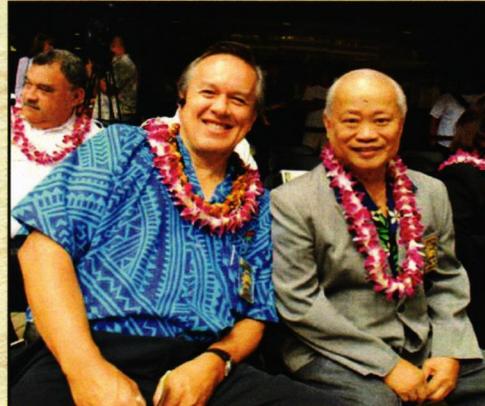

Corporation Counsel for the County of Hawaii, Lincoln Ashida, Esq., presented a talk on "The Lowest Enforcement Priority of Cannabis Ordinance: Challenges for our Police and Police Commission." He described the challenges facing law enforcement where an ordinance declares enforcement of cannabis use to be "lowest priority."

Offering a perspective of how to recognize potential drug traffickers and other wrongdoers, Transportation Security Specialist Carl Maccario and Assistant Federal Security Director John Valdes of the Transportation Security Administration ("TSA") offered their experiences at TSA and described how employees are trained to recognize behaviors or characteristics which demonstrated truthfulness or deception.

Updates regarding the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) conference and the Narcotics Enforcement Division rounded out the conference.

The conference concluded by honoring the HSLEOA Officers of the Year from Kauai, Maui, Hawaii County, and Honolulu Police Departments, as well as the Military and Federal law enforcement agencies for their outstanding dedication and contribution to law enforcement.
